

COW CANYON TRADING POST

NO NEED TO DRIVE FAR TO FIND THE RIGHT GIFT

The first sheriff of San Juan County, Rusty Musselman built Cow Canyon Trading Post around 1949. Over the past 25 years, Liza Doran and family restored the post. She established lasting relationships with Northern Navajo and other area artists.

"Cow Canyon art is great. It reflects indigenous cultures and Liza's eye for authenticity, creativity and beautiful forms." Sally Cole

Archaeologist and Rock Art Researcher.

"Our knowledge and tastes have matured due to the incredible diversity that has come through these doors. You'll see things here you haven't seen before." Liza Doran, Owner
